

Black Boys Play the Classics

By Toi Derricotte

The most popular “act” in Penn Station is the three black kids in ratty sneakers & T-shirts playing two violins and a cello—Brahms.
White men in business suits have already dug into their pockets as they pass and they toss in a dollar or two without stopping.
Brown men in work-soiled khakis stand with their mouths open, arms crossed on their bellies as if they themselves have always wanted to attempt those bars.
One white boy, three, sits cross-legged in front of his idols—in ecstasy—
their slick, dark faces, their thin, wiry arms,
who must begin to look like angels!
Why does this trembling pull us?

A: Beneath the surface we are one.

B: Amazing! I did not think that they could speak this tongue.
