Pinocchio

By Rae Armantrout

Strand. String.
In this dream,
the paths cross
and cross again.

They are spelling
a real boy
out of repetition.

Each one is the one
real boy.

Each knows
he must be wrong
about this, but he can’t feel
how.

The fish
and the fisherman,

the pilot,
the princess,

the fireman and
the ones on fire.
