[Sleeping sister of a farther sky]

By Karen Volkman

Sleeping sister of a farther sky, dropped from zenith like a tender tone, the lucid apex of a scale unknown whose whitest whisper is an opaque cry of measureless frequency, the spectral sigh you breath, bright hydrogen and brighter zone of fissured carbon, consummated moan and ceaseless rapture of a brilliant why.

Will nothing wake you from your livid rest?
Essence of ether and astral stone the stunned polarities your substance weaves in one bright making, like a dream of leaves in the tree’s mind, summered. Or as a brooding bone roots constellations in the body’s nest.

Source: Nomina (BOA Editions, Ltd., 2008)