Symptoms of Prophecy

By Camille Rankine

In the new century, we lose the art of many things.

For example, at the beep, I communicate using the wrong machine.

I called to say we have two lives and only one of them is real.

When the phone rings: you could be anybody. In the evening: you are homeless and hunting for good light, as safe a place as any to make a bed for the night.

In both my lives, my nerves go bust.

I'm certain that I'm not as I appear, that I'm a figment and you're not really here.

The struggle is authenticity.

I have a message.

You must believe me.
