The Strength of Fields

By James L. Dickey

... a separation from the world, a penetration to some source of power and a life-enhancing return ...
   Van Gennep: Rites de Passage

Moth-force a small town always has,

   Given the night.

   What field-forms can be,
   Outlying the small civic light-decisions over
   A man walking near home?

   Men are not where he is Exactly now, but they are around him around him like the strength

Of fields. The solar system floats on Above him in town-moths.

   Tell me, train-sound,
   With all your long-lost grief, what I can give.

   Dear Lord of all the fields
   what am I going to do?
   Street-lights, blue-force and frail

As the homes of men, tell me how to do it how
   To withdraw   how to penetrate and find the source Of the power you always had light as a moth, and rising
   With the level and moonlit expansion
   Of the fields around, and the sleep of hoping men.

   You?   I?   What difference is there?   We can all be saved

   By a secret blooming. Now as I walk
   The night   and you walk with me   we know simplicity
   Is close to the source that sleeping men
   Search for in their home-deep beds.
   We know that the sun is away   we know that the sun can be conquered
   By moths, in blue home-town air.
   The stars splinter, pointed and wild. The dead lie under

The pastures. They look on and help. Tell me, freight-train,
   When there is no one else

To hear. Tell me in a voice the sea
   Would have, if it had not a better one: as it lifts,
   Hundreds of miles away, its fumbling, deep-structured roar
   Like the profound, unstoppable craving
   Of nations for their wish.

   Hunger, time and the moon:
The moon lying on the brain as on the excited sea as on

The strength of fields. Lord, let me shake
With purpose. Wild hope can always spring From tended strength. Everything is in that.
That and nothing but kindness. More kindness, dear Lord
Of the renewing green. That is where it all has to start:
With the simplest things. More kindness will do nothing less Than save every sleeping one
And night-walking one

Of us.
My life belongs to the world. I will do what I can.
