Xenophobia

By Rae Armantrout

1

“must represent the governess for, of course, the creature itself could not inspire such terror.”

staring at me fixedly, no trace of recognition.

“when the window opened of its own accord. In the big walnut tree were six or seven wolves ...

strained attention. They were white.”

(The fear of cloudy skies.)

like strangers! After five years Misgiving. Misdoubt.

(The fear that one is dreaming.)

The moon was shining, suddenly everything around me appeared (The fear of) unfamiliar.

Wild vista inside or near the home.

(Dread of bearing a monster.)

If I failed to overlook the torn cushions,

three teapots side by side, strewn towels, socks, papers—

both foreign and stale.

when I saw the frame was rotten, crumbling away from the glass, in spots, in other places still attached with huge globs of putty.

The doctor forced me to repeat the word.
scared and unreal looking at buildings.
The thin Victorians with scaly paint,
their flimsy backporches linked
by skeletal stairways.

After five years

(The fear that you are not at home.)

I was sitting in the alcove where I never sit
when I noticed a single eye,
crudely drawn in pencil,
in a corner near the floor.

The paint was blistering—
beneath it I saw white.

Sparrows settle on the sagging wires.

(Fear of sights not turned to words.)

Horrific. Grisly.
“Rumplestiltskin!”

Not my expression.

Not my net of veins
beneath thin skin.

(A morbid dread of throbbing.)

Of its own accord
