

Robert Burns

Robert Burns is considered the unofficial national poet of Scotland. He wrote some poetry in standard English, but his poems and songs in Scottish dialect are better remembered. His patriotic poem "Scots Wha Hae" stirs Scottish sentiment to this day, and his song "Auld Lang Syne" is synonymous with New Year's Eve.